

LÜCHINGER MEYER PARTNER is a leading engineering firm specialising in façade and timber construction projects. We work throughout Switzerland and internationally as part of outstanding design teams alongside leading architectural firms for discerning clients.

For our office in Madrid, Zurich or Luzern we are looking for a:

Façade Designer – Timber Façades & Timber Construction (m/f/d) 80-100%

Your responsibilities

- Working on challenging timber façade projects / timber projects
- Creating design documents using 2D and 3D CAD systems – AutoCAD (Athena), optionally cadwork and Revit – as the basis for project development and tendering
- Developing detailed solutions and structural design of building envelopes using timber construction methods in collaboration with architects, specialist planners and industry partners
- Assisting with quantity take-offs when preparing bills of quantities
- Carrying out construction inspections
- Where applicable, use of 'open BIM' or 'closed BIM'

Your profile

- Completed vocational qualification as a Draftsperson / Designer or Timber Technician specialising in timber façades and timber construction, with proven professional experience
- Solid knowledge of using AutoCAD / cadwork CAD software

- Ability to work creatively
- Ideally, some initial experience working on BIM projects
- Strong interest in driving digitalisation and innovation within the construction planning industry
- Ability to work both independently and collaboratively in a team-oriented environment
- Fluent in English; knowledge of Spanish, German, or French is considered an advantage

We offer

- challenging and varied work in a creative and international environment
- A centrally located workplace with attractive public transport links
- a supportive team environment, a strong working atmosphere and a variety of team and sporting events
- fair social security and modern working conditions
- A wide range of internal training and development opportunities with long-term career prospects

We look forward to receiving your full application, which you are welcome to send to us by email or post.
